PAUL HOLLINGER BEING TRIED IN FIRST PARK CASE

An Adams county jury today was asked to determine what constitutes indecent dancing.

A number of witnesses appeared before the jury this morning to testify in the case of Paul Laverne Hollinger, Littlestown, owner of Natural Springs park, one mile east of Gettysburg on the Lincoln highway, charged with keeping a disorderly house.

All attempted to describe the dancing which they claim occurred on several occasions at the dance hall in the rear of the park building.

Officer Testifies

State Policeman Joseph Van Nort testified that he went to Natural Springs park on November 8 and again on November 15, at the direction of Sgt. Joseph Temple, head of the local state police. On November 15, Van Nort said, after having been at the place for about two hours, he gave the signal for other officers to raid the place.

Van Nort described several couples dancing what he termed the "Dirty Boogie." While the dance went on other dancers stood in a circle around the principal couple shouting remarks at them, Van Nort said. He added that the dance consisted of various gestures, and motions of the body and hands on the "breaks" and during periods when the couple danced close together.

One witness said the spectators gathered in a circle about the dancing couple, called out "go-go-go." The witness was a 16-year-old Hanover girl.

Mostly Teen-agers

Attempts of Hollinger's attorney, E. Austin James, of Frederick, to question witnesses on whether they had seen similar dances on television, or in other dance halls, led to a decision by Judge W. C. Sheely that such questioning could not be followed because: "Even if a dance were performed in every dance hall in the country if it were indecent, the fact that it was performed would not make it decent."

State Policeman Frank W. Yercavage was the first witness when the case opened this morning. A group of Gettysburg high school students visiting the court this morning as part of the Bar association's program of giving students an opportunity to see the court in action, were present for the drawing of the jury and Yercavage's testimony that he had talked to Hollinger and found that he did not have a dance hall license. Yercavage also testified that there were about 150 at the Natural Springs park on the night of the raid. The group included some older people, but mostly "teen-agers" he said. Yercavage said he was with the raiding (Continued on Page 2)

TWO CONVICTED FOR DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Two defendants were found guilty of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors by Adams county juries Monday.

Ralph H. Bechtel, Hanover, was found guilty by a jury that deliberated for 17 minutes and it took another jury six minutes to reach its decision on the guilt of Bernard Arthur Rich, Raleigh, N. C.

Bechtel had argued that he was not intoxicated when his car crashed into one driven by Miss Barbara Newman, Hanover R. 4, near Deleone high school, on December 12. He argued that he had had one beer prior to the accident and said after-effects of a fractured skull some years prior had caused him to become dizzy.

1st Drinks in Five Years

Rich said he had not had a drink for five years prior to December 5, when his car ran into a ditch a few miles north of here on the Harrisburg road. Rich, who said he was enroute to Harrisburg for his brother's funeral at the time, admitted to having had a number of drinks on December 5 and to having "blacked out" at Frederick. His next recollection, he said, came after the car had run off the road into a ditch.

The Raleigh man said that while he was intoxicated, he was not driving. A sailor, whom he picked up near Washington, he said, had driven the car from there, and he assumed had driven the vehicle until it had (Continued on Page 4)

Attorney Faces Second Code Charge

Charles W. Wolf, Gettysburg attorney, today faced a second code violation charge, and today was his last day to reply to the first one.

Borough police charged that Wolf, on January 18, failed to stop his automobile on the signal of an officer, who was directing traffic at York street and Lincoln square. A ten-day notice was sent to him the following day by Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore. That ten days expires at midnight tonight.

Today Squire Baschore sent a second ten-day notice to the attorney, on information filed by borough police, charging that at the time of the first violation, Wolf did not have his automobile registration card with him, or in the automobile.

Attorney Wolf said today that he will "have nothing to say on the charge until the proper time when the case comes into court."

Countian Jailed In Default Of Bail

David McCartney, Aspers R. 1, was committed to the Adams county jail Monday afternoon in default of $500 bail for a hearing before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore Wednesday morning on a non-support charge. He was arrested Monday by Constable Charles Smith. McCartney is charged with failing to support his wife, Minnie, and seven children, ranging in age from three months to 11 years.

Stone Jug Covered Bridge No. 1

This is the third of the three bridges in the Stone Jug section, and is known as "Stone Jug Bridge No. 1." On The Gettysburg Times map of Adams county, it is county bridge No. 76, located about seven miles north of Gettysburg, and reached either by way of the Biglerville or Harrisburg roads from Gettysburg.

Of the three bridges, this is the farthest east, or nearest to the Harrisburg road. This picture was taken looking east. The bridge has a span of 91 feet, eight inches, over Conewago creek, and is located in Butler township. Like the other 24 covered bridges in Adams county, this has well-built stone abutments. The sides of this one are open its entire length.

The Conewago flows between ridges and only a short distance from where Opossum creek makes a wide bend to pass under Stone Jug bridge No. 2 and Deardorff's Burnt Mill bridge.

To reach this bridge by way of the Harrisburg road, drive north on Route 15 about seven miles and turn left at the Thomas store. The road goes over the hill and dips down to this, the first of the three bridges reached this way. Or take the Biglerville road to the fork a mile north of Gettysburg. Keep to the right on the Old Carlisle road to Table Rock, then continue to Bender's church, turning to the right at the church. (Gettysburg Times Photo)

Friends Urge L. C. Taylor To Enter Congressional Contest

Attorney Leighton C. Taylor, of Bendersville, is being urged to seek the Republican nomination for Congress from the newly created district comprising Adams, York and Cumberland counties. It has been learned from reliable sources that GOP leaders in York and Cumberland counties, some officials in the state administration and several Congressmen have approached Mr. Taylor and have asked him to enter the race.

Reached at his home in Bendersville Mr. Taylor told The Times: "Yes, I have been approached by a number of my friends to enter the campaign. I have not given serious thought to the matter and have not made any commitments. The acquisition of Cumberland to the district places a new complexion on the Congressional picture this year. The campaign should be interesting."

Today is the first day candidates may secure names on nominating petitions. Filing of petitions must be done not later than February 18. March 1 is the last day to register before primary day, April 22. The general election will be November 4.

Congressman James F. Lind, Democrat, of York, now serves the district which comprised, up to the redistricting by the state legislature this year, Adams, York and Franklin counties. He has not announced whether he will seek re-election.

VENEER MAKING IS DESCRIBED FOR ROTARIANS

How veneer is made was shown Monday evening by Clark S. Smith, West Lincoln avenue, as part of a classification talk given to the local Rotary club at its meeting in the Y.W.C.A.

Smith, of the purchasing department of the Gettysburg Furniture factories, showed a film made by the wood industries which construct veneer. It showed the cutting of logs into thin strips and how the strips are put together under pressure to make veneers. The film then showed a number of uses of veneer.

A native of York county, Smith told of his early days as the son of a school teacher-store keeper, of attending Franklin and Marshall college and seminary. Smith told the group "everyone laughs at the idea of someone selling magazines to work their way through college. But if it had not been possible for me to sell subscriptions to magazines (Continued on Page 2)

PRIEST SCORES SOCIALIZATION IN TALK BEFORE HOSPITAL GROUP

"We are growing away from the American tradition of working for love of God, our country and neighbor," declared the Rev. Fr. Anthony P. Kane, pastor of St. Francis Xavier's church, at a meeting of the Warner Hospital auxiliary Monday afternoon at the American Legion home. "There is a growing tendency toward socialization in our schools, hospitals and institutions in general due to a lack of alertness on the part of the public."

"The existence of such an organization as the Auxiliary is in the proper American tradition," the priest declared, "and we should perform our Christian acts of charity for the love of God and not solely on a materialistic basis as suggested by the government. Somebody has to pay; we never get something for nothing. Only voluntary contributions are free, such as the work performed by volunteer workers in a free clinic. We will gradually fall into the menace of socialism if we continue to accept from the government something for nothing, for then the government will eventually take over. It is easier to receive than to give, but we thereby lose our freedom."

Officers Are Elected

"Each one of us has a personal obligation to help his neighbor which should be sanctified by the spiritual element. The work of any charitable group must not measure itself by the material aid bestowed but by the element of genuine Christian charity revealed in the performance of its work."

Twenty-two F-86 Sabre jets tangled briefly with about 50 MIGs from 30,000 down to 20,000 feet.

Munsan, Korea, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Communists hinted today that Red China would wash its hands of direct participation in administering a Korean armistice.

The hint was cryptic and indirect. It came during a meeting of staff officers on truce supervision at which the U. N. command reported "progress was being made."

In another truce meeting, however, Reds flatly rejected an Allied plan for exchanging prisoners. The Communists were promptly told they "must contribute something" if an agreement is to be reached.

When Reds balked at the Allies "complete solution" for the prisoner problem, Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said:

"We have tried every means to reach agreement. We have come to the end of our ingenuity. If we are to make any progress, your side must contribute something to this progress."

Outside the conference tent, the U. N. negotiator said the next move is up to the Communists.

Libby presented the U. N. 14-point draft Monday. North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho turned it down today. He objected to:

1. Voluntary repatriation of prisoners. The Reds insist all prisoners of war be exchanged, regardless of their individual wishes.
2. Visits to POW camps by the international committee of the Red Cross. Lee referred to it as the "Red Crosses of your side."
3. A parole agreement that prisoners exchanged for civilians or not repatriated would not fight again in the Korean war.

The Chinese hands-off hint was made by a North Korean during discussion of an 18-page U. N. program for supervising the truce. The Allied plan provided that civil administration of the Red half of a demilitarized zone would "be the joint responsibility of the supreme commander of the Korean Peoples Army and the commander of the Chinese Peoples Volunteers."

Up To North Koreans

North Korean Col. Chang Chun San, principal Red staff officer, asked that the word "joint" and the phrase "commander of the Chinese Peoples Volunteers" be stricken. This would leave administration of the area exclusively in the hand of North Koreans.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. command spokesman, commented: "If this is an indication" the Chinese don't want to have anything to do with administering an armistice "it is the first time to my knowledge."

The Reds tentatively agreed to the first 12 paragraphs of the 54-paragraph Allied draft. But they raised objections to the 13th, the last considered before they adjourned for the day.

Reds protested proposed rotation of 75,000 U. N. troops a month during the armistice. The Communists said they were astonished at the figure. Reds originally had objected to any rotation but later agreed to 5,000 a month.

Nuckols cautioned against optimism over the work of staff officers.

"The items discussed today and on which tentative agreement was expressed are largely non-controversial," he said.

KENTUCKY TOPS NATION'S COURT TEAMS IN POLL

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Kentucky climbed into the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll today—but the Wildcats had only narrow margins over Kansas State and Illinois.

Adolph Rupp's bluegrass quintet totaled 790 points to 755 for Kansas State and 745 for third place Illinois. These three were far out front. Fourth-place Kansas had 523 points and fifth-place St. Bonaventure, one of the two major undefeated teams left, had 457.

Kentucky, which was on top in two of the first three polls of the season, lured 32 first-place votes from the nation's sports writers and sports-casters. Each first-place vote counted 10 points, second place nine, and so on down the line.

Kansas State Impresses
Rounding out the first ten, in order, were St. Louis, Duquesne (the other undefeated team with a 12-0 mark), Iowa, Washington and West Virginia.

The most impressive jump was made by Kansas State, which was seventh a week ago. The K-Staters Saturday hung the first defeat of the season on Kansas, which had been in the No. 1 or 2 spot for four straight weeks. The Jayhawks, incidentally, got only one first place vote.

The first ten took a real scrambling, in fact, the only school to hold the same spot it held a week ago was St. Bonaventure, No. 5. Illinois, on top of the heap last week, also tasted its first defeat Saturday.

Other High Teams
Duquesne, which jumped from the No. 10 position, made it record 12-0 last night by whipping Villanova, 83-61. The Illini (12-1) trounced Purdue, 84-57, and Kentucky (15-2) defeated Vanderbilt, 88-51, in the only games involving first ten teams.

Seton Hall jumped to the chief threatening spot this week, holding down the No. 11 spot, which was given up by Holy Cross, now No. 17. Other Pennsylvania teams on the list of the top 50 in the nation were Penn State (24); LaSalle of Philadelphia (25); Penn (40); St. Joseph's of Philadelphia (43); Temple (45); and Villanova (46).

Ty Cobb In Favor Of Negroes In Baseball

Menlo Park, Calif., Jan. 20 (AP)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, fiery old time star of the diamond, stepped up to the plate today to clout a verbal home run in favor of negroes in baseball.

Himself a native of the deep south, Cobb voiced approval of the recent decision of the Dallas club to use negro players if they came up to Texas league caliber.

The old Georgia Peach of Detroit Tigers fame was a fighter from the word go during his brilliant playing career. He neither asked nor gave quarter in 24 tumultuous years in the American league.

Time has mellowed the one time firebrand and he views the sport in the pleasant role of country squire. He spoke emphatically on the subject of negroes in baseball, however. "Certainly it is O.K. for them to play," he said. "I see no reason in the world why we shouldn't compete with colored athletes as long as they conduct themselves with politeness and gentility. Let me say also that no white man has the right to be less of a gentleman than a colored man."

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Jan. 20 (AP)—Freddie Corcoran started just like all other boys brought up in Boston, carrying golf clubs for Francis Ouimet, and now his honest Irish face peers from a five-color liquor advertisement in one of the current slicks.

Freddie now is a man of distinction, right up there with the big game hunters, the Arctic explorers and the members of cafe society's upper drawer. It is a richly deserved reward and one long overdue.

It is possible that Freddie would have been tapped earlier were it not for his one serious weakness. He has always thought that Ted Williams was a better ball player than Joe DiMaggio. With Joe now retired and Ted going into the service, members of the selection committee probably figured Corcoran would be less likely in the future to enter low arguments on the topic.

Missed At San Diego
The only ones who might view Corcoran's accession with mixed feelings are the professional golfers. It was Freddie who made them what they are today. He built up the rich winter circuit to where a player who can't win, say, $20,000 during the cold months, feels he's a failure in life.

A jealous, ambitious group among the PGA finally managed to give Freddie the old heave-ho, and they have been regretting it ever since. What they didn't know, or appreciate, was the fact that their so-called employee habitually spent more money on long-distance telephone calls than the total of his expense allowance.

The absence of our hero's guiding hand was glaringly evident during the recent unpleasantness between the pros and Joe Louis out in San Diego. Freddie, somehow, would have avoided that one. The old Brown Bomber would have wound up boxing a benefit for Sammy Sneed before Corcoran finished with him.

While he will wear his new honors lightly and remain the same old Freddie to his host of friends, it may be well to warn those who would try to take advantage of the beaming figure holding the glass that he can, when occasion warrants, become a very tough man, indeed.

Famous Feud
His feud with one of the nation's leading railroads is famous. For years, as he returned to his home town of Boston, Corcoran was badgered by porters rapping upon his door and demanding that he clear out of his compartment by 7 a.m. Freddie got enough of it.

"I got to thinking," he said once, "what could they do if I didn't get up? So I called their bluff."

A considerable silence followed the remark. Freddie looked distinguished, and someone started to change the subject. But one hard-headed insisted upon knowing what had happened.

"Why," said Corcoran, "the suckers took me out in the yard and it took me $3 to get back to town."

Athletics' Shantz Is Not For Sale

Philadelphia, Jan. 20 (AP)—Field Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Philadelphia Athletics says southpaw hurler Bobby Shantz is not for sale or trade this year because "he's the nucleus of our pitching staff."

The talented, pint-sized Shantz compiled an 18-10 record while huriling for the sixth place Athletics last season.

Dykes expressed his sentiments concerning Shantz yesterday in reply to a report that General Manager Frank C. Lane of the Chicago White Sox had offered $225,000 in cash and players for the little left-hander.

Arthur H. Ehlers, Athletics' general manager, said he was "in receipt of no such offer."

Hayes Beats Lamotta In Split Decision

Boston, Jan. 20 (AP)—Knockout beatings by Champion Sugar Ray Robinson and Irish Bob Murphy appear to have taken a high toll on Jake La Motta, boxing's famed bull of the Bronx.

After a five-months layoff, that ex-middleweight titlist returned to the ring wars last night and dropped a 10-round divided decision to Norman Hayes, Boston's 20-year-old negro battler who has championship ambitions.

Jake, now 30, appeared fat and heavy-footed at 169½ pounds. He punched with all his old-time reckless abandon but, against Hayes, who proved extremely easy to hit, Jake's blows seemed to lack their former zing.

La Motta, a 1-2 favorite with a 6½ pounds pull, lumbered after Hayes throughout. Many times Jake landed solid blows to the Boston youngster's head and body but they lacked authority.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COAT-TAILING SPRING NORTHWARD

One of the most fascinating books
I have read in years is the recently published one by Edwin Way Teale,
"North with the Spring," which I have referred to briefly of late. The author planned and dreamed about this book for years, and it took him months of traveling in 23 states and over 17,000 miles. He began his journey in lower Florida at the first stir of Spring, and wended his way northward to the Canadian border.

As his publishers have noted, this book is the story of the author and his wife of "their adventures which also form a natural history of the spring, a biography of the world's favorite season." Over much of this territory I have traveled—but what a multitude of interesting things I missed! Mr. Teale missed almost nothing, for he is a superb writer, naturalist, and photographer as well.
He makes you his intimate companion, and you share his life of nature and all its wonders. In one place he says: "I wonder what a psychologist would make of my affection for minor melodies."

Vacationists from Florida and the Southland should read this book before they start their journey back home in the north. It will enrich their trip in a variety of ways, and they will learn more about the natural wonders of Eastern America than they ever dreamed. It will be a joy to borrow Mr. Teale's eyes and listen to his intimate talk about God's created wonders.

This book teems with interesting comments. For example, the author says that "the diamond-back rattlesnakes of Florida are deaf and can't hear their own rattle." That "more than 1,000 varieties of plants now grow in the United States that originated in other countries and came in by ship." That "some birds have Southern accents. At least they have a local variation in their songs which distinguishes them from their Yankee relatives." And that "small species of singing birds have eyes that outweigh their brains!" I am wondering if the latter doesn't apply to a few human beings!

I wish that I might have more space to devote to this excellent book, for it is certainly destined to become a classic to those who look upon nature as a wonderland of beauty, of singing birds, matchless flowers, and with the smile of heaven everywhere!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Beginnings."

GETTING BETTER
Getting better! Gone the worry!
Done the pleading: "Doctor, hurry!"
Done the temples fever burning;
Signs of health and strength returning.
Nurse no longer "Take this"
wheeling;
No more penicillin needling;
No more friends with gloomy faces.
Room once more a cheery place is.
No more: "Food, I'll eat it later."
Bed rolled up a little straighter.
Comes the daytime supervisor Saying: "You're an early riser!
To your doorway I came creeping.
Thinking you would still be sleeping.
Up for breakfast, slumber
scorning!
How'd you like your eggs this morning?"
Enter white gown'd doctor grinning, Saying: "Here's a case I'm winning!
If continued gain you're showing
Home you'll very soon be going.
Told your wife so when I met her.
Yes, you're surely getting better."

Leaps To Death In River As Cops Near

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 29 (AP)— An unidentified man, who refused to pay a five-cent bridge toll, apparently jumped to his death into the swollen Ohio river.

Azel Ramey, a toll taker on the Huntington-Chesapeake, O., span, said the man, about 40, declined to pay a nickel to walk across the bridge toward Chesapeake. Ramey called after the man several times, threatening to call the police.

"They won't get me anyway," Ramey quoted the man.

When two Huntington patrolmen, responding to the toll taker's call, approached the man near the middle of the bridge, he climbed over the railing and jumped.

The Super "88" uses the "Rocket" engine and has five body types—four-door sedan, two-door sedan, series is offered in the four-door and two-door sedan and is powered by a 145-h.p. version of the "Rocket" engine with dual downdraft car-

The overall length of the "98" has been increased from 208 to 213 inches. Wheelbase also has been in-rear stabilizer bar has been added in the rear, improving car handling and stability and minimizing side sway at high speeds. There is greater rear deck length, making more luggage space available in the spacious trunk.

New Silhouette

In exterior styling, the Classic
"98" with its high rear fenders and long deck creates a new styling sil-

Interior appointments of the Earl W. Guise, Gettysburg R. D.

and Mr. and Mrs. Lake Ridinger, Mt.
Joy township, told a different story.
According to them Rich stopped his along the Harrisburg road to ask car at Guise's farm machinery store directions to Harrisburg shortly before the crash.

Quick Verdict

Guise and Ridinger, who was at Guise's establishment at the time, told of Rich taking a drink before he drove off, and of offering Rid-inger a drink. Both said there was "no sailor nor anyone else in the car."

Rich said he had entered a plea of guilty, which he later withdrew, because "some fellow came out to the jail the next morning and said there's a plea of guilty for you to sign." He told me if I didn't sign it it would complicate things and I'd never get out of jail—he was going deer hunting." Rich said he could not identify the person who told him that, and said it was not the sheriff or his deputy.

Completely new body styles are offered by Mercury for 1952, including the custom sport coupe with "hardtop" body illustrated here. Distinctive styling is achieved by a high prominent fender line, low flat hood contour with aircoop-like projection and a massive wrap-around double front bumper. The attractive appearance of the 1952 Mercury is further enhanced by a one-piece curved windshield, an extra-large rear window and luxurious interior upholstery and trim. A more powerful V-8 engine developing 125 horsepower and a stronger chassis are featured.

Hurricane Smashes Town; 12 Are Killed

Suva, Fiji, Jan. 29 (AP)—A terrific hurricane, with winds of 150 miles an hour, completely devastated Suva yesterday, killing at least 12 persons and injuring several hundred.
The three-hour storm smashed even concrete buildings housing stores and offices. Huge waves wrecked the harbor installations in this capital of the British-held Fiji islands. Hundreds of houses were destroyed.
All electric power was out and all telephone service was disrupted. Reports of the toll of dead and injured concerned only Suva, where the main force of the hurricane appeared to have struck. Little information was available from outlying parts of the islands.
Authorities said the storm moved southeastward from here.

roomier and more luxurious interior and a "big car" exterior, and at the same time is easier to handle and more economical to operate.
In addition to a two-door sedan and two four-door sedans, the doors of which are hinged from the front, Mercury for 1952 has two sport coupes with "hard-top" styling, plus a convertible and two four-door station wagons. This is the most complete line ever offered by Mercury in the 14 years of its history.
Completely re-styled, the new cars combine smooth flat surfaces with a minimum of curves and extruded projections. A simulated aircoop on the low flat hood and similar features on the sides add pleasing touches and individuality to the styling.
A double bumper bar in front is a new feature, combining in one

SENATORS WANT MORE DATA ON PAY INCREASES

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — Senate Armed Services committee members left no doubt today they are far from pleased with the Pentagon's opening arguments for a 10 per cent cost-of-living pay raise for the men and women of the armed forces.

Several members said they believe "some reasonable increase" should be granted. But they said they believed Secretary of Defense Lovett's assistant secretary in charge of manpower problems, "just were not properly prepared to present a case" when they testified yesterday.

The group called Mrs. Rosenberg back for further public hearing testimony today.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), ranking Republican member of the committee, told a reporter, "I favor a reasonable adjustment, but I believe the general opinion in the committee is that they will have to make a more thorough presentation. We failed to get illuminating replies all too often yesterday."

Too Much For "Brass"
Senator Hunt (D-Wyo) said "they haven't made a case for it yet." He predicted "some changes" in the bill which already has House approval.

Several members said they want to know how much of the raise, in dollars, would go to officers and how much to men in the ranks. Hunt said yesterday it seems the bill would give a lieutenant colonel a raise five times as big as a private's boost, and that this looks disproportionate.

The proposed 10 per cent lift in base pay and allowances could cost an estimated $32 million dollars a year, Lovett said.

"COURAGEOUS" AWARD GIVEN TO ALEXANDER

Philadelphia, Jan. 29 (AP)—Stewart (Skip) Alexander thanked "borrowed courage" and the marvels of modern medicine for the privilege of being alive to receive the Philadelphia sportswriters accolade as "most courageous athlete of 1951."

Alexander, who fought his way back to the golfing tournament trail after 17 major operations for injuries suffered in a plane crash, was honored last night at the 48th annual Writers' dinner. Also feted with roast beef and trophies were Princeton's great halfback, Dick Kazmaier, the "athlete of the year," and Bob Ward, Maryland tackle, "the lineman of the year."

His face lined with scars and his fingers, which once controlled some of golf's best shotmaking, still bent and bruised, Alexander told some 1,300 diners that he owed part of his recovery to letters and telegrams of encouragement from people all over the nation. "It was sort of borrowed courage," he said.

Sole Crash Survivor
"Sports has paid me back in full for what I've put into them. It undoubtedly was my sporting instinct, that natural effort to win against all odds, that helped carry me through my recent trying days. My faith in the doctors and the unflinching encouragement of my wife, plus the thought of our two-year-old daughter carried me past many discouraging moments."

Alexander's tragic accident occurred September 24, 1950, shortly after he had finished sixth in the Kansas City Open. The Civil Air Patrol offered to fly him to Louisville. The CAP plane crashed near Evansville, Ind., airport killing three CAP officers. Only a charred Alexander survived.

With third degree burns of the hands, arms, legs and face and a broken left ankle he managed to crawl from the flaming wreckage. Blood transfusions and 17 operations in 16 months finally pulled him through. His last operation was about two weeks ago.

DIES OF INJURIES
Pottsville, Pa., Jan. 29 (AP)—A 63-year-old woman died in Pottsville hospital yesterday of injuries received when she was struck by a truck. Mrs. Anna Kennedy, of Pottsville, was struck near her home Sunday night. Her sister, Mrs. George Harrison, 58, was treated at the same hospital for cuts of the left elbow.

HIGHEST TV RELAY
New York, (AP) — The American Telephone and Telegraph Co., builders of the micro-wave circuit which makes possible coast-to-coast television across the Rocky Mountains, reports that the highest station on the route is on Mt. Rose, Nev. That is 10,000 feet above sea level. This is one of the units that receives a signal from one direction and passes it on in the other direction in the station-to-station network link.

PEACEFUL YEAR IN INDUSTRY
Singapore, (AP)—Industry in this British colony enjoyed a year of relative peace in 1951. There were only three strikes. G. W. Davis, Singapore commissioner of labor, said that trade unionists had shown "good sense and an appreciable amount of patience" in negotiating with employers and avoiding work stoppages.

WHY ROTATIONS ARE NEEDED

Successful farmers have long known the numerous benefits of crop rotation and practiced it on a sound scientific basis. But few vegetable growers ever stop to think that rotations, even in the small home garden, are far more necessary. Here not only is soil fertility protected by moving vegetables to different sites each year, but several widespread soil-borne diseases are thereby avoided. Examples are numerous.

Clubroot of cabbage, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, and other members of the crucifer group lives over winter in the soil of plant beds as well as that of the growing area. If for no other reason, cabbage and related vegetables should not be grown in the same soil or follow their relatives in successive years. In the case of cabbage yellows at causative organisms may survive indefinitely after they are once introduced into the garden soil. The same rotations which help avoid clubroot will reduce black rot and blackleg dangers.

Well planned rotations for cucumbers, cantaloupes, squashes, pumpkins and watermelons are necessary so none of these crops is grown in successive years in the same soil or follow any of the related species and genera.

Pink rot, early blight and yellows are three troublesome diseases of celery which lurk in soils where the crop has grown. Particularly is celery rotation annually justified where yellows is present. The organisms which cause pink rot of celery also cause the same trouble with lettuce and cabbage. Therefore, following outbreaks of this disease in any of these three vegetables should suggest a threefold rotation scheme to avoid the danger.

Eggplant, tomatoes and potatoes are related. Wisdom here demands and safety requires that at least two or three years elapse before any of these crops are returned to the same site.

Smut of onions is a common disease throughout the North but is seldom reported south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers. The fungus lives from year to year in the soil. Following outbreaks of smut it is advisable to move onions to a clean soil.

Root rot and Fusarium wilt of peas must be prevented by long rotations because no other means of control are known. However, where wilt is severe it is wise to try one of the more resistant varieties even when rotations are employed.

Growers who have discovered red stele in their strawberry plants should remove the bed or field to clean soils or grow the resistant Aberdeen or Pathfinder varieties.

Early blight, leaf spot, and Fusarium wilt are three serious diseases of tomatoes which warrant carefully planned rotations to reduce their ravages. The last named disease may survive in soils several years after a heavy infestation.

Along with cautious vegetable rotations should go hand in hand the use of new seed each year, sterilization of plant bed soil, and disinfection of seed. All these precautionary measures lead to the profitable goal of disease prevention as well as curtailed costs of fungicidal spraying. Of course, the editor always invites all questions readers wish to ask on this important subject.

NOTES ON EARLY CABBAGE

Every home vegetable gardener should include at least two or three dozen extra early cabbage in his crop plans. In order to reduce seed-borne and plant-borne disease dangers it may be advisable to grow plants at home. Seed should be sown in a sunny window box or mild hotbed the last week in January or the first few days of February for earliest plants.

If yellows, a soil-borne disease, was present last year, growers should at this time understand that cabbage yellows can be prevented by no known measures except by growing one of the several resistant varieties now available. Once introduced, yellows organisms survive indefinitely in garden and field soils and may be carried from one area to another on cultivating tools and by running water.

To prevent damping-off among small plants, seed should be treated with Semesan according to directions on the container. Clubroot and blackleg may be considerably curbed by rotating cabbage to clean soils every year, allowing at least three or four years to elapse before the crop is grown on the same site again or where any related crops, including broccoli, Brussels sprouts, collards, and cauliflower, have grown in the interim.

Black rot may be prevented chiefly by disinfecting seed in hot water just before sowing. Seed produced in the Far West is deemed free from this seed-borne trouble.

As soon as seedlings open two or three leaves they should be carefully picked out of the flat and moved to individual pots or bands and placed in a sunny coldframe. There they should be kept growing steadily by judicious watering and ventilation until soil and weather conditions permit their transplanting to their growing sites. Of course, final transplanting should be done without disturbing the roots. This is one of the several purposes of growing plants in individual containers.

Light frosts do not injure early cabbage. Therefore, transplanting may be done even in early April, providing plants are protected should heavy freezes come.

Cabbage demands a fertile, mellow loam. Commercial fertilizers will not correct soil defects or take the place of proper care. Livestock manure is perhaps used for cabbage with greater benefits than with any other vegetable. It should be turned under and worked through the lower stratum of soil at least a week or two before transplanting time. Broadcast and work into the top soil a 6-8-6 or 5-10-5 fertilizer at the same time, at rate of 2½ to 3½ pounds to 100 square feet. Later, after plants are established, one to three side dressings with nitrate of soda will hasten growth, improve head quality and other wise stimulate cabbage to peak vigor.

Gardeners who have in former years encountered trouble from the root maggot are invited to write the editor, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, for a copy of our general cabbage growing instructions. These include simple ways to control the green cabbage worm and aphids as well as root maggots. In fact, gardeners should write soon for all cabbage information needed in starting this hardy early vegetable.

RANDOM NOTES ON SHADE TREES

All deciduous shade trees may be planted during mild periods in late winter. Home owners, rural or urban, who are planning to add another or a few more trees to the home grounds should order them soon. Planting time should not be delayed beyond early March.

If trees or any other dormant planting stock, such as fruit trees or bush fruits, arrive before soil and weather conditions permit immediate planting, they should be heeled in a somewhat protected but well drained location to prevent the roots from excessive drying.

Shade trees are one of the most direct and important media for adding vastly to property values. In many court decisions well developed trees have been adjudged at as high as $2,500 each in terms of property worth. Certain it is that trees are indispensable to the attractiveness and comforts of a dwelling.

With the drastic reduction in bird life which so-called civilization has wrought, along with wider spreading of tree diseases in modern life, home owners are confronted with a difficult problem in selecting kinds of plant. Species and genera which were considered almost immune to ills a few years ago are now affected by diseases which threaten their survival. This is well illustrated by the elm and now with the oaks. Quite frequently this matter is reflected in inquiries from readers who ask—"What is a safe choice?"

In the light of experience it appears likely that the oaks, particularly the pin oak, are a sound selection despite the leaf wilt outbreaks in various parts of the country.

The exceptionally hard Ginkgo, while it is not a spreading tree and does not rank near the top in shade value, is another genus that is not threatened by diseases of any dire scope.

The greatly under-estimated and overlooked Liquidambar, listed as Liquidambar styraciflua, sometimes called maple-leaver gum, is a wise and beautiful choice for shade as well as ornament. The editor knows of no reports of diseases or serious insect attacks affecting this tree.

Then too, the old standby maples may still be selected with a wide margin of wisdom, and while the Norway maple is an excellent choice, our native sugar maples hold many claims for home ground planting. Of course, the so-called white maples are fragile in trunk and limb structure and should not be considered.

Tree of heaven, popularized several years ago by Jesse Stuart's first novel of Kentucky mountain life under the same name, makes a beautiful tree for use in the home grounds or along streets and highways. Its botanical name is Allantia. Only the platane form should be grown because the staminate bears spring flowers with disagreeable odors. This tree withstands considerable rough use in street locations.

Beech, hackberry, sassafras, red oak, white birch, the willows, and a few less widely known kinds may be included in this list of fairly safe shade trees.

In northeastern Iran, in the so-called "Belt Cave" overlooking the Caspian Sea, the bones of three Stone Age people were unearthed in 1951.

SEE M'ARTHUR
AS SUPPORTING
SENATOR TAFT

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — Sen. Tobey (R-N. H.) today labelled remarks by Gen. MacArthur a "left-handed slap" at Gen. Eisenhower but said they "won't keep Ike from being elected president."

Sen. Brewster (R-Me.) interpreted MacArthur's remarks as a strong indication of his support of Sen. Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination.

Tobey is backing Eisenhower for the GOP nomination. Brewster is a Taft supporter.

They commented in separate interviews on MacArthur's statement yesterday that in selecting a national leader the voters face a demand for a man with demonstrated capability in "the science of civil government."

MacArthur Withdraws
MacArthur made the statement in a letter to New Hampshire supporters asking that his name be withdrawn from the state's March 11 presidential primary, the first in the nation this year.

J. Wesley Colburn, one of 10 candidates for delegate to the Republican national convention who had filed favorable-to-MacArthur in the New Hampshire race, said he felt the letter made it plain that MacArthur regards Taft as an "ideal man for president."

Eisenhower has said he would accept the Republican nomination but won't seek it. He is entered officially in the New Hampshire primary by virtue of his nonwithdrawal of his name.

Stassen In Race
Ted Johnson, a leader of the Taft forces, said the senator's name would be filed in the New Hampshire race some time today. Entry by the Ohioan would be a direct challenge to Eisenhower in an area where the general's backers feel there is a good deal of Eisenhower sentiment.

Another challenge there is expected today from Harold E. Stassen, whose friends said they were ready to enter his name. Stassen, president-on-leave of the University of Pennsylvania, is an announced candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

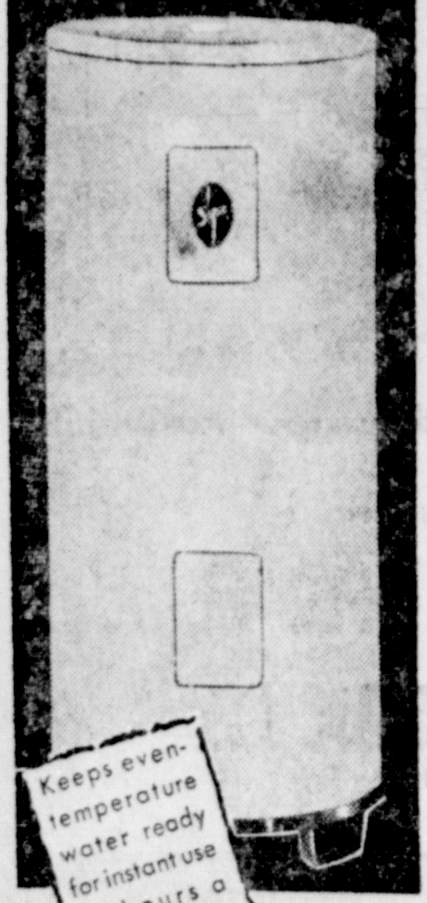

Tomorrow is the deadline for filing in the presidential preference phase of the New Hampshire contest.

Miss Bright, 25, wife of disc jockey Gene Norman, showed up at the station in a brief, black satin bathing suit and told this story:

She was moving to a new home and wore only the bathing suit while packing in 76-degree weather. She put her entire wardrobe, $4,000 worth, in her car. Then she donned a coat, drove with friends to a cafe and went in to eat. When she came out the wardrobe was gone.

DINNER MARKS ANNIVERSARY

A dinner in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kelly, De Paul street, was held Sunday at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Topper, North Seton avenue. Those attending the dinner, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, were their children and in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. Topper, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Pius E. Kelly, Mrs. Marie C. Rosensteel and several of their grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Loris Glunt, Donald Rodgers and Barbara Ann Rosensteel, Mrs. Jackson Humerick, who was bridesmaid at the wedding, was also a guest.

A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, formed the centerpiece of the table, with the chandelier above draped with a bell and gold tassels.

Recalls Big Snowstorm

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly were married on January 29, 1902, in St. Anthony's Shrine church by the Rev. Fr. John B. Manley. Mrs. Kelly was the former Annie L. Humerick, daughter of the late George and Annie Humerick, and Mr. Kelly is the son of the late Virginia and Jerome Kelly. Recalling the day they were married, Mr. Kelly said that the snow was approximately 18 inches deep and that they had a hard time getting to Thurmont to take the train for Baltimore where they spent their honeymoon. On Sunday afternoon from 2 until 5 o'clock an "open house" was held and 60 relatives and friends of the couple called to offer congratulations.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kelly are 80 years of age and are in good health. Mr. Kelly has been employed for the past 15 years by Miss Alice Taney as caretaker and during the winter months he also does custom broom-making by hand power at his home. Mrs. Kelly does her own housework despite a serious operation several years ago.

Mass At St. Joseph's

On Tuesday morning a mass was offered at 7 o'clock in St. Joseph's Catholic church by the assistant pastor, Rev. Fr. Michael O'Brien. The servers for the mass were Donald Rodgers, a grandson, and Allen Stoner, great-grandson.

In addition to their four children, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly have 24 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. They received many gifts.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Elizabeth Pfeiffer, Mrs. Elmer Rudy and son, Danny, Mr. and Mrs. George Pfeiffer, Mr. and Mrs. John Owens and daughter, Linda, all of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers Topper and daughter, Patsy, of Mount Airy, Md.

New York, Jan. 29 (AP) — A wealthy 68-year-old matron determinedly lectured the tough young bandit on the evils of crime.

For 30-minutes he listened as he scooped up $100,000 worth of her jewelry, then he pressed a knife against her back and said: "You don't have so long to live—and I don't care how many people I kill."

The man, a negro about 20 years old, then fled yesterday from the Fifth Avenue apartment of Mrs. Scott Scamnell, wife of a New York lawyer and a member of a wealthy Trenton, N. J., family.

Vet Tries New Tack To Avoid Car Taxes

Dallas, Jan. 29 (AP) — Seeking to avoid payment of city taxes on his automobile, a World War II veteran who lost both legs on Bougainville, today claimed his car—like his false teeth—is an artificial part of his person.

The veteran, Roscoe H. Collier, made his claim in answer to a suit filed by the city of Dallas. The city claimed Collier owes personal property taxes on his car for the last four years, amounting to $64.30.

Collier maintained his car was a "prosthetic appliance," and his only mode of transportation. Date has not been set for a hearing.

Visiting Judge Puts Pressure On Probers

Pittsburgh, Jan. 29 (AP)—A visiting judge from Lackawanna county asked state investigators why a police lieutenant whose indictment was recommended was not been arrested.

Judge Thomas L. Hoban referred to Lieut. Louis E. Morgan, ex-chief of the vice squad. A special state grand jury investigating vice and corruption urged his indictment on charges of embezzlement and other charges in connection with his work as an officer of the Police-Federal Credit Union.

"Why didn't you swear out an information against him and have him arrested?" Judge Hoban asked Harrisburg, Jan. 29 (AP)—The state Highways department said Monday it has been offered "unlimited quantities" of scarce construction steel. But the proposition was rejected because of the "excessive price."

E. L. Schmidt, acting highways secretary, said the offer was made by the Paulson company of Dubois, in a letter signed by Paul R. Fisher. But Schmidt said the department will not purchase any of the imported steel because "of its excessive price and the standing policy of the department to use only American-manufactured steel."

Washington, Jan. 29 (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham will take his religious revival to the steps of the national capitol next Sunday in "the greatest demonstration of Christianity in our time."

The 33-year-old preacher announced his plan and made the prediction to an estimated 10,000 persons yesterday.
